

I have an iPad 2 or iPhone 4S and I want to play this game. What should I do?"

Christine, you would rather mention your age. It is even easier for children with this - after all, they remember everything from childhood. Don't you think this is a problem? I'm pretty sure that the answer "just play" is not the right answer for this situation, in which the need for a game may arise. In such things, it is very important to give children freedom so that they can do whatever they want. I will say from my own experience: in teaching children, the same thing should happen as with us: adults play with children. And it's not just a ball game, not just an outdoor Sunday game. Play with your child and it will help you! I do a lot of work with children through computer games. And notice that I give them their own creations. I am immediately released from all restrictions. And children are also creators. And what happens when children are busy with creativity? They are developing a new culture for all their games. In other words, you cannot find a simple solution because there are too many different components in this situation. To sum up: imagine such an ideal situation, when the children are happy, when the parents are free. Is it possible? We have many things that limit us, such as vaccinations, good food, and sports. We need to change our ideas about age. Children think that at this age everything is allowed to them. Anyone - can I? Let's go back to your kids and imagine an ideal picture of a world where everything is perfect: you and your kids are free to sit and play together, and no one doubts that there are good reasons for this and there are no restrictions. Maybe you already have this option, but who knows? Would you like your child to use the iPad because "it's great". Maybe you will admit the possibility that he will play this toy, but first he must ask why you think so. Of course, parents can ask a question.

(CHRISTINA: Yes.) Let me list the main things to keep in mind before we talk about what to do to keep children watching movies from the iPad from "bleeding" into destructive behavior. " Influence of adults. This is the most important reason. Explain to the children that the DVD is not the same as the
