AOMEI Data Recovery (Advanced Edition,Pro Edition).It is known to provide a satellite-based positioning system that receives signals transmitted by global positioning system (GPS) satellites and calculates the position of an object. In such positioning systems, the GPS satellites broadcast signals with the location of the satellite and the time at which the signal was sent. A receiver that uses GPS signals can detect the time and position of the GPS satellites, thereby determining the location of the object based on the known time and position of the satellites. Such a system, however, is extremely expensive and time consuming for many applications.
