Tennessee State Senator Mae Beavers (D) is today's winner of the 2015 Daily Caller News Foundation Hero of the Year award in her state of Tennessee. Despite being in the minority, Beavers is one of the most effective state legislators in the country. She has campaigned tirelessly and effectively for many causes — including being a vocal supporter of Kim Davis. In 2012, then-House Speaker Joe Lyons threatened to expel Beavers from the Senate after she spoke out against taxpayer funding for abortion clinics. "I told her that it's time for her to move on," a source told the Tennessean. "Her criticism of pro-abortion legislators, and her stance on their issues, was affecting her ability to do the job she was hired to do." But Beavers' tactics and refusal to be silenced are not just unique to Tennessee. In 2011, Beavers was the lone senator to vote against funding for Planned Parenthood. Beavers, who represents the 68th district in Nashville, is also a founder and steering committee member of the American Family Association's Affiliate for Religious Liberty. "God of course is the author of life," Beavers said about abortion. "We're also sure that abortion is the fastest growing segment of our military today." Here's a video of Beavers speaking at a rally in late July 2015: As for Davis, Beavers' defense of her will be featured in next year's Biopic about her experience. Kim Davis, the Movie is directed by Academy Award-winning filmmaker Joe Berlinger. "There is no one person who has done more in the last year to help her fellow Americans come to understand and know better that their rights come from God, not from government," Rauner said in a statement. "Senator Beavers has worked tirelessly for years to defend the faith and [Hero Appearance] The highly detailed character creation screen. You can freely create your own character, combining a variety of weapons, armor, and magic. [Rise, Tarnished] A daily life in the Lands Between is tough. If your character is not of noble lineage, your status will be reduced by low base stats. As time passes, low stats will reduce your ability to deal damage and cause various effects to occur. With every day that passes, only 1 victory in 50 battles is guaranteed. [Epic Battles] In battle, you can develop your character by enhancing the weapons and abilities of the five attributes. Do whatever your heart dictates by summoning powerful attacks. [Defense] Your attribute points can be used to increase your guard. [Attack] A close encounter will be engaged. If the damage to the enemy exceeds the attribute points you have, you deal more damage and receive bonus effects. [Magic] Your attribute points can be used to enhance your magic power. [Movement] You use your attribute points to enhance your attack power, and magic, and its power to enhance your defense.
