• Provides deeper control on all sides of the ball, accurate ball physics, and more tactical depth • Players now have improved ball control • More goalkeeper choices Players also have more tools at their disposal. For example, they now can express more individual skill on the ball and choose how they want to play the game. This creates more tactical opportunities from both sides of the ball. Motion captured players, which more accurately models player movement and cover a wider range of different players, have been brought to the new game. On top of all of that, this release also includes the following new features: • Overseeing Penalty Area Outcome, where, when a penalty taker steps up, the player can choose whether the penalty kick should be taken, saved or missed, and receive feedback on whether the penalty kick was successful or not. A new penalty system is also included, which provides players with more opportunities to practice penalty shots. • Combines PlayStation VR and Move controllers, and now supports the new PS VR Aim controller. The Move controller was primarily designed to be held in a hand, but the PlayStation VR Aim is designed to be used with a hand on each side. Players can play all PlayStation Move compatible games using one PS VR Aim and one PS VR Controller. • New Pitch Building System (recommended for PS4 Pro and 4K displays only) The latest iteration of the FIFA franchise has received awards for its refined gameplay and has been praised for its in-depth controls and responsive ball physics. With the release of FIFA 22, Electronic Arts has invested significantly in motion capture technologies, inspired by the way professional athletes move, creating what the developers call “HyperMotion Technology”. FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology,” which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay. • Provides deeper control on all sides of the ball, accurate ball physics, and more tactical depth • Players now have improved ball control • More goalkeeper choices • Motion captured players, which more accurately models player movement and cover a wider range of different players, have been brought to the new game.
