The following are some of the specific examples: Plain clothing includes the following items: Clothing with identification or emblems; Clothing with identifying marks indicating the nature of the fabric or care, for example "ironing"; Clothing with identifying marks indicating the nationality of the manufacturer. For example: "Made in France"; "Made in Spain"; "Made in Canada"; "Made in USA"; Clothing with identifying marks indicating the origin of materials or the place of production, for example the name of the manufacturer, the store of sale, or the country where the product was made or printed. On the other hand, fancy dress includes the following items: Clothing; Clothing decorated with identifying marks, for example coloured patterns or national symbols; Clothing of distinctive design and/or of non-traditional colour, that are not sufficient to indicate clearly their age, such as vintage items, or other items with "appearance" of a vintage make; Clothing whose main purpose is not to be worn as a garment but rather as an accessory or component of a garment, such as headbands, handbags, shoes, jewellery and other items which are intended to serve as accessories to a garment. (Such rules, where applicable, will be published in a customs bulletin.) Customs help in defining the difference between clothing and e79caf774b
