If you're going to spend money on learning Photoshop, use this money for good and not bad. This is the "Craft" Photoshop tutorial that I highly recommend. It has so many great tips and insights, not just on photo retouching, but on photography and composition, too. Also, if you're especially inclined toward learning photography, this tutorial is a must read. Learn Photoshop on the Cheap: Part 1 This 10-minute video tutorial was created by Learn Photoshop on the Cheap, a collection of short tutorials by creators in the design, illustration, and illustration departments of various companies. It was created by Learn Photoshop on the Cheap (and many other useful sites) and is all about learning Photoshop for less than $10. This tutorial is perhaps the best all-around tutorial out there. Q: Allow mobile phone to update on LAN I have a router that is currently running NetBSD. I was wanting to expose it as a guest on my home network. This works great, however, I am unable to access the web port or the print server with my mobile phone. It seems the browser has to be running over the network and the port is obviously bind to something else because it's just giving me a message that it can't connect. My router is a NetBSD 8.0_LE, but the issue is similar in both 9.0_LE and 8.1_LE. Any ideas as to how I can allow a mobile phone to update over LAN? A: The problem was not being able to access ports. I was assuming that the netbsd box was behind the router. I was actually allowing access on the router to the port 80 of the server. The mobile phone should have access to any available port, but it's web port needed to be forwarded on the router. Now I am really stuck because the developer could not solve this issue. Can anyone help me please? A: I tried different bower commands to resolve this issue, it was resolved by this command bower install pon-accels --config.json ~/.bower.json" The United States is planning to join international efforts to prepare for a "time-bomb" of cyber attacks that could disrupt the safety of life on Earth. US Vice President Joe Biden was preparing to unveil new "US-led plans to combat an old danger – cyber attacks that could destabilize nations or even destabilize the global economy," the Washington Post reported. "Some 20-30 years from now, when the clocks strike midnight, do we want an earth where every man, woman and child lives in fear of what might happen in their absence?" asked Biden in a speech to the Center
