Woods spoke about his 2020 U.S. Open hopes during his first press conference since his divorce from Elin Nordegren last year. Woods has won 10 times at the U.S. Open, including the last five majors, but he has yet to win the championship in nearly five years. “There’s no better test of your desire than where you’re standing as a golfer,” Woods said during his press conference on Monday. “If you’re not having fun out there and that’s the farthest you can take things, you need to figure out a way to get back in there and do it, because if you do not want to pursue it, you’re going to hit yourself in the foot every time you try to play this great game.” “I’ve had a lot of missed opportunities over the past two years. I’ve had a lot of time to think about it,” he continued. “And I really do believe that, if I wanted to get back in there, I’m able to go out there and win. We’re talking about having fun and having that desire to be successful. That’s the one thing that I do not have.” Woods’ comments went as follows: Do you think your game can get there again? “
