(1)Thursday, November 11, 2007 Happy Holidays I want to start this blog off with a shout out to my fellow bloggers who were my inspiration to start this blog. Stephanie put me on to the challenge, and I have fallen completely and utterly in love with it. The blog community is awesome and I am proud to be a part of it. If you would like to learn more about this awesome challenge, click on over to Stephanie's blog. I was commissioned to create a photo for Taylor's 3rd Birthday party. I had a huge scrapbook of pictures that my son took at his last birthday party, and his mom had some pictures from when Taylor was a baby, so I was able to "stitch" together a photo collage that I really enjoyed doing. The birthday party pictures were taken over the next few years so I was very happy with how the collage turned out. I sent this photo to Taylor's mom to have her tuck it into one of her two green purses that she gets to take to all of her family parties. She loves that it is each year the same, but I think she would also love seeing her little girl grow and change year to year.If this is your first visit, be sure to check out the FAQ by clicking the link above.
